I agree wholeheartedly with Admiral Mike Mullen, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, that the Military prison on Guantanamo in Cuba should be closed. (Military chief: Close Guantanamo, Jan. 14, 2007, Courier Times front page article)

Instead of receiving the benefits of the “paradise of the Caribbean” in warm, sunny Cuba where they receive three Muslim-acceptable meals a day and a warm place to sleep, a Koran, the privilege of praying 5 times a day in accordance with their “religion of peace,” showers, clothing, outdoor play areas, etc. They should be moved to a place that is already available. That place is found in the San Francisco Bay in beautiful California, it has plenty of space since it is no longer occupied. It is called Alcatraz. They could be dropped off, would not even need guards, thereby freeing up their soldier-guards to pursue their conspirators and other avowed enemies. Food and necessities could be airlifted in and dropped or taken in by boat each week. They could do what they pleased without supervision and certainly no “torture” – even though they are terrorists – excuse me - “insurgents” - and prisoners of war. Some of them have killed our young men and women (or got caught before they could carry out their nefarious plans) and all, no doubt, want all the rest of us “infidels” killed as well.

This way the Muslim Sunnis could carry out their vengeance and their ongoing hatred of their kindred Muslim Shiites and Muslim Kurds as well as all other designated enemies (anyone who is not a Muslim) and soon we wouldn't have to worry about feeding and clothing them and they wouldn't have to be concerned about “fair trials” execution or deportation. Sounds like a plan, man – what do you think?
